Subject: Allergen Status of National Brand Fluid Natural Lecithin

In keeping with prudent and responsible manufacturing practice, it is the policy of National Lecithin, Inc. to label any and all products we sell that contain Soy derivatives as a soy allergen. There are no traces of wheat, dairy, shellfish, legumes, or other ingredients in our lecithin products that may be considered potential allergen sources as identified by the FDA.

It should be noted that the triggering agent of allergic reactions is from the proteins of these products, and due to its highly refined nature, our soybean lecithin in particular should not, and generally will not, contain even the slightest trace of soy proteins. We believe that the actual potential for an allergic reaction from any of our soy-based products is extremely remote.

If you have any further questions or concerns, or require additional information regarding the nature of our products and their allergen potential, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Sincerely,

NATIONAL LECITHIN, INC.
